Praise for the Facilitator of TRUSTED from leaders around North America...

Chin's ability to gently question someone to seek further meaning and evaluate their own thought process, allows growth and aha moments

Chin takes the time to personally introduce herself to each participant before starting a program thus enabling trust to be formed right from the beginning. Her ability to focus her undivided attention when someone is giving their opinion or sharing feedback provides a feeling of a safe and nonjudgmental environment. Chin's ability to gently question someone to seek further meaning and evaluate their own thought process, allows growth and aha moments that bring greater learning to a participant. Chin just simply has a way of transferring knowledge in an engaging and empowering way and this is why I truly appreciate her facilitation style and would recommend her without any hesitation!

ANITA GOUVEIA Learning & Organizational Development Manager - Toronto, ON Canada

Her coaching method made it very easy to follow and stay "at the edge of your seat" during each workshop. Chin has a true gift for what she does...

I truly admired how Chin engaged each and every participant during each workshop. It was really amazing how Chin made it a point to know every single person's name. Her coaching method made it very easy to follow and stay "at the edge of your seat" during each workshop. You can notice right away that Chin has a true gift for what she does, as she does it extremely well. I would love to take any other workshop she offers. Chin does what she loves and loves what she does. Thank YOU Chin!

MANUEL SALAZAR Managing Director - McAllen, TX

Once you leave her training, you have full understanding of the material being taught and you can't help but feel like you've made a friend for life in Chin.

Chin is a true professional. She reaches across all learning styles to ensure all participants are partaking during the training making one feel comfortable and at ease. She is able to pull the room back into focus when thoughts and ideas get scattered away. Once you leave her training, you have full understanding of the material being taught and you can't help but feel like you've made a friend for life in Chin.

LORENA PINEIRA Sea Freight Pricing Desk Manager- Miami, FL

...Chin does a wonderful job of integrating her true self into the training group, getting to know the participants on a genuine level...

In addition to having a deep and real-world understanding of the training material, Chin does a wonderful job of integrating her true self into the training group, getting to know the participants on a genuine level, and then bringing the training material forth in that environment which makes for a truly enriching experience.

CHRIS LONGUA Director, Corporate Credit – Tewksbury, NJ

Her teaching strategies and techniques help the information "stick"...

Chin exudes positive energy and has the ability to communicate material in a way to keep the audience active and engaged. Chin's passion of learning and leadership fosters her audience to think objectively about themselves. Her teaching strategies and techniques help the information "stick" which is such an important objective when attending a training session. I obtained practical and lasting knowledge of the material thanks to Chin.
